WILD WELCOME TO ROOSEVELT

Ex-President Both Laughs and Weeps From Sheer Joy

HIS POPULARITY UNDOUBTED

Solid Yell From More Than a Million Throats Travels With Him as He Rides Through Five Miles of Closely Packed People—Dramatic Closing Scene, When He Shakes Hands With Every Rough Rider in Parade

New York, June 18.—Mr. Roosevelt is home, the happiest man alive. His reception in the gateway of his country went straight to his heart. He laughed like a boy. He wept unashamed.

Nothing in all his career—he said it with clinched jaws and a bang of his fist—so affected him as the fervency of the greeting he got on land and water. New York, which was all America for the day, just reached out, gripped him by the hand, slapped him on the back in the way he liked and said: "Teddy, you're mighty welcome home."

From his year and a quarter of hunting and sightseeing and speech making, he returned with no polices in his mouth. Afloat and ashore, stand-patters and insurgents coveted his smile, plucked at his sleeve and prayed for a declaration. He laughed them aside. In the wonder of his welcome he was in no mood, he told them all, for political discussion.

It is the simple truth that no American was ever so mightily acclaimed as ex-President Roosevelt, no prince or princelet was ever so received. Within the eight hours of his stay in New York boundaries, he was offered every mark of honor that time and his own comfort permitted.

Fort and warships roared the presidential salute of twenty-one guns and more than a million people lined the water side and the streets and cheered him every foot of his way.

His welcome began when the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria loomed at 6:45 a. m. through the mists of Sandy Hook and it ended, so far as this city is concerned, only when he went aboard his train for Oyster Bay at 4:30 p. m. At 8 o'clock off quarantine he was received by representatives of President Taft and Governor Hughes and senators and governors and legislators and private citizens of distinction were waiting to grasp his hand.

The fervency of his welcome grew as he approached the land. When he touched foot on Manhattan Island at 10:56 a. m., there were 100,000 people around Battery park to roar a welcome. On the stand Mayor Gaynor greeted him with the briefest of speeches, and Roosevelt with almost equal brevity assured the mayor and his fellow citizens that he was glad to be home.

Presently he was on his way up Broadway through greater crowds than ever gathered in that canyon in anyone's memory. There was no doubting his popularity. Interesting and spectacular as the Dewey parade was it fell far short of Roosevelt's progress from the Battery to the Plaza at Fifty-ninth street.

A solid yell traveled with him. The bandmen might have ceased from tooting, for none heard their toots as the colonel passed. Here was two hours of uninterrupted cheering from five miles of people.

The final scene of this welcome was as dramatic as any lover of sensation may hope for. The Rough Riders were drawn up facing down Fifth avenue and the first thing he did was to stride from horse to horse and shake hands with every rider of them. The Spanish war veterans of the whole country presented him an album of complimentary resolutions, in acceptance of which Mr. Roosevelt spoke a dozen earnest words. It was all over in a whiff and at 1:35 he was speeding down Fifth avenue in a motor car to lunch at the home of Theron Alexander, grandfather of his son Theodore's fiancée.

REAL DAY OF REST

Roosevelt Enjoys a Quiet Sunday at His Oyster Bay Home

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 20.—Yesterday was Theodore Roosevelt's first day of rest in months. The return to privacy is a delight to him, and he made it known that it is his desire to drop just as far out of public sight as the public will let him. In the autumn he will make a tour of the country.

Mr. Roosevelt went to Christ church in Oyster Bay in the morning and took a long walk in the afternoon. Senator Lodge and Representative Longworth were at Sagamore Hill all day and in the afternoon Secretary Meyer came for a visit. Roosevelt took an early train for New York today to attend the wedding of his son and Miss Alexander.

Hailstones Destroy Crops
Waterville, Me., June 23.—Thousands of dollars' damage was done in this section in about fifteen minutes by a hailstorm. The hailstones fell with great force, cutting all growing crops to pieces. Fruit trees were also badly damaged.

"DE-LIGHTED!"

ROOSEVELT ANGRY OVER PRESS STORY

Ethel Not Engaged to Marry
Former Newspaper Man

New York, June 23.—Theodore Roosevelt came into town from Oyster Bay in a towering rage. He has seldom, if ever, been seen to show the anger he did when a newspaper reporter showed him a story in a paper to the effect that his daughter Ethel was to marry James T. Williams, Jr., an ex-newspaper man, whom President Taft made civil service commissioner.

Mr. Roosevelt was in his automobile at Oyster Bay at the time, and it looked as if he would get out and begin to swing his fists at any and everybody, so furious did he become when he saw the article.

"This is an infernal scandal," he shouted, "and it is foolish to answer it. It is the scandalous infamy of a scoundrel. There is not a word of truth in it. That's all."

Kermit and Ethel, with a friend of the family, were in the automobile at the time.

STATEHOOD BILL SIGNED

Roosevelt Greatly Desired Measure to Pass During His Presidency

Washington, June 21.—The president signed the statehood bill yesterday afternoon. Two pens were used by the president in affixing his signature, a gold one furnished by Postmaster General Hitchcock and an eagle feather, presented by Delegate Andrews. Both were retained by their owners as souvenirs.

It was one of Mr. Roosevelt's ambitions to have had this bill passed during his presidency. It is claimed it was deliberately held to give President Taft the honor.

MILLIONS FOR PRINCETON

Court Says Contestants of Wyman Will Have No Standing in the Case

Salem, Mass., June 23.—Judge Harmon, in the probate court, allowed the will of the late Isaac C. Wyman, who left his millions to Princeton university for the founding of a graduate college.

Judge Harmon ruled that the Mudgetts of Lynn, who filed appearances, had no standing in the case and that their relationship was so distant that, had no will been filed, they would have been unable to secure any of the property of the deceased.

MARKS EPOCH IN AVIATION

First Airship Passenger Line
Opens in Germany

A THREE-HUNDRED-MILE TRIP

Takes Nine Hours For the Deutschland to Cover Distance From Friedrichshafen to Dusseldorf—Zeppelin at Helm of Dirigible Fitted With Home Comforts—Has Lifting Capacity of 44,000 Pounds

Dusseldorf, Ger., June 23.—The first regular airship passenger service was inaugurated when Count Zeppelin's craft, the Deutschland, carrying twenty passengers, successfully made the first scheduled trip from Friedrichshafen to this city, a distance of 300 miles, in nine hours. The weather was perfect and the motors worked faultlessly.

The average time maintained for the complete course was approximately 33 miles an hour, but between Friedrichshafen and Stuttgart, the 124 miles was covered in an average rate of 41 miles an hour. The best speed for a single hour was 43½ miles.

Count Zeppelin was at the helm when the Deutschland rose at Friedrichshafen and sailed away on the trip that was to mark an epoch in aviation. The passengers were some of the directors of the Hamburg-American Steamship company and the German Airship Stock company, joint owners of the dirigible, and guests. They occupied the mahogany walled and carpeted cabin situated between the gondolas, and from the windows of which they viewed the scenery as the aerial car swept along. Zeppelin steered for the greater part of the distance.

The route was via Stuttgart, Mannheim and Cologne to Dusseldorf. It had been marked out in advance for the guidance of the pilot and was followed exactly. No air was stirring and the Deutschland made her way unhampered through a flood of sunshine.

The hour and minute of the probable passing of the various points had been bulletined ahead, so that not only the people of the cities on the line, who filled the streets, but the inhabitants of all the intermediate villages turned out and cheered as the immense torpedo-like structure, with its whistling screws, drove over their heads at a height from the surface of between 200 and 300 feet.

The Deutschland swung gently into her landing here and the multitude surrounding the landing yards shouted a welcome. The city had been decorated in honor of the event. The promoters of the enterprise and their guests were entertained at a public dinner.

Regular trips will be made, and many tickets have already been sold for the first few days at from $25 to $50 each. The airship is equipped with a restaurant which will supply the passengers with a buffet service such as is afforded on parlor car railroad trains.

The dimensions of the Deutschland are: Length, 485 feet; width, 46 feet. Its gas capacity is 24,852 cubic yards and it carries three motors having a total of 330 horsepower. It was designed to maintain a speed of 35 miles an hour. Its lifting capacity is 44,000 pounds, of which 11,000 cover the crew, passengers and express. It is expected to be able to accomplish a continuous trip of 700 miles.

HAZING CADETS LOSE

Resolution Permitting Their Reinstatement Fails of Consideration

Washington, June 22.—By failing to take action on the joint resolution providing for the reinstatement of the West Point cadets who were dismissed for the hazing of young Sutton last summer, the house committee on military affairs knocked out the chances of the cadets in question for reinstatement at the coming session of the military academy, the way for which was paved by the resolution.

Under the provisions of the resolution considered by the military affairs committee the West Point hazers were to be tried by court martial, and, if exonerated, were to be allowed to re-enter the academy in the fall.

Reno Will Be Battleground

Reno, Nev., June 22.—With Reno definitely fixed as the battleground, with assurance from Governor Dickerson that no attempt to interfere will be made by the state authorities, and with preparations already under way for the building of the arena, the Jeffries and Johnson fight seems certain of fulfillment on July 4.

White Slavers Sentenced

Three Years For Collector Moos
Northampton, Mass., June 21.—Frank D. Moos, the South Hadley tax collector, who embezzled $4500 of the town's funds, was sentenced to three years in the Hampshire county jail.

WEDDING IS HELD UP

Romance of Boston Girl and Polish Prince Strikes Another Snag

London, June 23.—What happened to cause the postponement of the wedding of Miss Dorothy Deacon of Boston to Prince Antoine A. Radziwill is a problem that no one can solve except the principals themselves, and they are apparently satisfied to let other people guess about it. The wedding was to have occurred yesterday, but was postponed at the last moment.

The romance of the American girl and the Polish nobleman has been even more the subject of gossip than any of the brilliant American marriages in London this season, for there have been many interruptions to the course of their love.

The mother of the prince has been unwavering in her disapproval and she has been supported by the entire family connections among the Polish, Russian and German nobility.

WAS POET AND ARTIST

Death of Princess Feodora, Sister of the Empress of Germany

Karlsruhe, Ger., June 22.—Princess Feodora of Schleswig-Holstein, the youngest sister of Empress Augusta Victoria, died suddenly from heart failure. The princess was born on July 3, 1874, the daughter of Frederick, Duke of Schleswig-Holstein.

Princess Feodora never married. She had written several volumes of verses and was an artist of merit. Owing to the death of her sister, the empress has cancelled all her social engagements for the near future and also her expected visit to Kiel, for the yachting regatta.

GAYNOR ABOLISHES PLAIN CLOTHES MEN

Two Hundred Gotham Policemen Return to Patrol Duty

New York, June 23.—Hereafter there will be no more plain clothes men in the police department. Acting on the suggestion of Mayor Gaynor, Commissioner Baker issued an order ordering 203 men doing that kind of duty to report at various police stations last night to begin work as policemen in uniform. Some of the men affected have not worn a uniform in years.

The abolition of the plain clothes system is a severe blow to the captains and the men affected, but persons on the inside of the department say it is a master stroke on the part of Gaynor. It is regarded as the severest blow ever dealt the so-called "system" of the department.

It is reported that the extension of the detective service will be made. Each detective branch will be assigned to cover so many precincts.

PENROSE MEN IN CONROL

Tener Named For Governor by Republicans of Pennsylvania

Harrisburg, June 23.—The following ticket was nominated by the Republican state convention:

For governor, John K. Tener; lieutenant governor, J. M. Reynolds; secretary of internal affairs, Henry Houck; state treasurer, C. F. Wright. The Penrose organization had entire control.

President Taft's administration and the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill were endorsed by the convention. Governor Stuart and his administration were also endorsed.

WILL STAY IN CABINET

Secretary Knox Yields to the Desire of President Taft

Pittsburg, June 21.—Secretary Knox, who had been endorsed by many county delegations to the Republican state convention as a candidate for the governorship, has withdrawn his name from the list of possibilities.

Messages were received here from the secretary saying that he feels constrained to withdraw by the president's insistence that he remain in the cabinet.

IN DANGEROUS POSITION

Allan Line Steamer Goes Ashore and May Become a Total Loss

St. John's, June 23.—Allan line steamship Prinz Oskar, Montreal for Rotterdam, with passengers and freight, which ran ashore on Flower Ridge, opposite Point Amour, is in a dangerous position and it is feared she will be a total loss.

Her passengers were taken off by the Allan liner Stellan, which then proceeded to England.

News of the Prinz Oskar's predicament did not reach here until last evening, and then a revenue cutter was dispatched immediately to her assistance.

Praise For Taft, None For Roosevelt

St. Paul, June 22.—Indorsing the "wise, conciliatory" administration of President Taft, but laying on the table a resolution "re-affirming our unalterable support of the policies promulgated by Theodore Roosevelt," the Minnesota Republican state convention met and nominated a full state ticket.

THE STATE A COUNTRYMAN ABROAD

Mr. McCarthy Should Be Ashamed

The state of mind of Jeremiah J. McCarthy, Surveyor of the Port of Boston, in the discussion of the attitude of the Civil Service Commission toward recent appointments for Boston positions, is an excellent illustration of the conditions prevalent in altogether too many quarters at the present time. To the public mind, Mr. McCarthy appears to be objecting to the failure of the Civil Service Commission to make proper investigation for its findings, and on the surface some of his interviews follow out a line of thought looking toward a relief of what he considers to be a bad situation. But actually, Mr. McCarthy isn't interested in a single bit in the attitude of the Civil Service Commission may take upon any future appointments. He is not fighting for a principle, as he suggests, but on the contrary, he is fighting simply and solely to establish himself in such a position, that by and by he may announce in tragic tones that he has been driven from the Republican party by the attitude of some of its leaders. Mr. McCarthy is seeking for a peg upon which he may hang his democratic ballot for public gaze before he casts it next November.

Unfortunately, the attitude of this gentleman, who has lived upon public office at the hands of the Republican party for the last twenty years, is imitated in many sections of the Commonwealth at the present time. It is not the attitude of the men who have real grievances, for ninety per cent of those men are found with their feelings under control, and their patriotism aroused to a hearty loyalty at the present time when the Republican party needs them more than it ever has before. Not so the professional feeder at the public crib. He cannot baldly proclaim himself a renegade without some plausible reason, and the distinguished Bostonian who is just now the most illustrious member of this band, is making a generous amount of noise previous to his flop.

It is not surprising that Mr. McCarthy is disappointed over the present situation. The private understanding he had, led him to believe that the road was an easy one from Republicanism to Democracy, inasmuch as it led through the fields of non-partisanship. The Civil Service Commission did not consider that the desirability of this change in the Surveyor's politics, either from the standpoint of Republicanism or Democracy, was sufficient ground for them to give an approval. Hence the distinguished Surveyor is left high and dry on the bank of the river "Discontent," with his gaze fixed hungrily upon the rich fields of Democratic clover in the Boston fire department pasture; while he sees in the Republican vineyard only the gathered grain upon which others are to henceforth feast, without even so much as the presence of the big "political dinner giver" to cheer himself.

As if this were not enough, now comes Governor Draper refusing to allow Mr. McCarthy to enter the holy precincts of the Council Chamber that he may exhibit officially his grievous state of mind. Mr. McCarthy should have then retired gracefully, and dissembled a bit; that would have been more like him and a more effective aid for his new Democratic ally, but the clever "Pol" seems to be in bad shape, for his latest effusion descends to abuse.

If Mr. McCarthy thought he would add to the strength of his position by his vicious and dirty attack upon the private affairs involved in the differences between the family of Governor Draper and the family of General William F. Draper, he is bound to quickly find out his grievous mistake. There are many people who believe Mr. McCarthy should have been confirmed in his recent appointment. There are many who also see a dangerous tendency in the new Boston policy of the control of municipal government by a state commission. These are issues, in the discussion of which Mr. McCarthy was on solid ground, but when the Governor's private affairs are dragged in, that is another story.

No better evidence could be presented, that even Mr. McCarthy recognizes the wisdom and soundness of Governor Draper's position, than Mr. McCarthy's shift from petition to abuse. Possibly he has broken out prematurely with some Democratic capital in his latest interview, but if he has he has overshot the mark. Probably no one could regret more than does the Governor the present estrangement between two branches of his father's family, but in no possible way will the great public of Massachusetts allow the noise of disgruntled office seekers or blatant Democratic orators to make of such a purely personal matter, a political issue. Mr. McCarthy should be ashamed; certainly many of his friends are ashamed of him.

The summer schedule of the Boston & Maine Railroad gives Andover one additional train that is sure to be appreciated by local patrons. The 8.06 morning express arriving in Boston at 8.40 with only two stops makes it possible for regular patrons to reach their offices in Boston before 9 o'clock, as well as to connect with trains going out on the N. Y. N. H. & H., N. Y. Central Lines, and steamers leaving Boston around 9 o'clock. It is intimated that if sufficiently patronized this may be an all the year train.

THE TOWN A COUNTRYMAN AT HOME

As to School Discipline

A very interesting old document, of which the following is a copy, has been shown to the editor by an Andover lady who discovered the same among some old papers.

Committee

May, 1842.

The above is particularly interesting at the present time, when agitation about the discipline of young people is so pronounced. We respectfully refer to the trustees of the Lyman School the fact that 'way back in 1842 the teachers were forbidden to "carry deadly weapons into the schools of Andover for the discipline of the school," and a result of that prohibition is seen in the perfect models of propriety reared in Andover since that date. And then again, note the thoughtfulness of the distinguished committee who had charge of the revision of these by-laws in insisting that no one should be sent for water who couldn't carry a pailful at a time. We trust that our present school committee will examine with great care the rules printed above, for we are really of the opinion that such an examination will reveal many unwritten suggestions that might be profitably followed at the present time, in dealing with the school children of Andover.

Editorial Cinders

The recent comment of the Townsman upon the result of the Andover-Exeter game as a "Victory for Clean Sport" has brought a communication from one of the most enthusiastic of the Phillips alumni, interested in Andover athletics. This writer adds to the Townsman editorial the following very timely suggestion:

"Not the least important result, by far, in Andover's victory over Exeter, was the fact that once more it has been conclusively demonstrated that, in order to win, it is not necessary for a 'coach' to make himself conspicuous and objectionable by attempting to direct his players from the bench.

"Sometime, in the near future, I certainly hope that the 'coaches' of school and college teams will be contented to coach during practice, and allow the boys to play their own game during the game."

Of course we will "say a word about the Flower Mission," because no more worthy charity, that costs little and means much, comes to the attention of the people of Andover. At a great deal of sacrifice, several generous-hearted women have for many years carried on this work, giving their time and interest without stint, that the surplus blossoms of Andover may make sweeter and brighter the me of the dark places of Boston. The same people are again interested, and it is to be hoped that the Andover flower raisers, in this year when more flowers than ever are to be gathered, will be generous with this weekly mission. As will be seen by the notice elsewhere, they may be left each Friday at the residence of Dr. Abbott on Main street.

It has been good to have a visitor during the Commencement season at Abbot, Miss M. E. Boshier, who was for a number of years such an efficient helper in the management of Abbot Academy. Miss Boshier is now located in Honolulu as head of the Kawaiahao Seminary, an institution for the education of the younger natives in Honolulu, conducted by private charities. Miss Boshier is enthusiastic, not only over the work of

DECIDED AGAINST BURNS

Supreme Court Dismisses Suit of Joseph L. Burns in His Effort to Buy Carter Block

It will be recalled by Townsman readers that Joseph L. Burns attempted to purchase the Carter block, during the last illness of the late Charles L. Carter. Upon the failure of Mrs. Carter to give to him a deed after all the conditions were understood by her, Mr. Burns brought a bill in equity to compel her to do so.

A hearing upon this bill was held in the Supreme Court last week, Thursday, before Judge Rugg. Mr. Burns was represented by a lawyer named Bond from the office of Whipple, Sears & Ogden, who already had some reputation in Andover. Mrs. Carter was represented by Col. John P. Sweeney of Lawrence.

Mr. Burns' contention set forth that Mrs. Carter agreed to sell the Carter block to him under an arrangement that Burns might ask the tenants, P. J. Hannon and J. H. Campion, if they would pay more than the price agreed upon, and if they bid higher he would pay as much or more than they bid; that Hannon bid $20,500, while Campion did not bid on the property, whereupon the petitioner offered to pay $20,510 and has asked the respondent to deliver deeds to it at that price, but respondent has neglected and refused to do so.

In the trial W. J. Burns and Jos. L. Burns, Esq., testified for Jos. L. Burns, and Mrs. Carter, J. H. Campion, P. J. Hannon, and Dr. Abbott testified for the defendant.

On Saturday Judge Rugg sent down the following as his finding: "The extent of the defendant's claim at the hearing has been such that the plaintiff's case disclosed such a want of equity that the court in its discretion ought not to grant the relief prayed for, and the asks that the bill be dismissed on this ground:

"I grant this request.
"Let decree be entered dismissing the bill without prejudice to the plaintiff's right to bring an action at law."

C. E. Concert

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the South church held a very successful concert in the church vestry last Friday evening. The audience which was a large one considering the stormy weather which prevailed, was afforded great pleasure by an excellent program of vocal and instrumental music and readings. Miss Ethel Hinton of Lawrence rendered three readings which were highly appreciated.

The R. C. O. A. quartet, consisting of William MacCreadie, Philip Hardy, Edmund Hammond, and Frank Smith, was present and sang several times with great success. A double quartet made up of Miss Florence West, Mrs. Austin Hitchcock, Miss Eleanor Holt, Miss Grace Jenkins, and Messrs. George White, Fred Cheever, Archibald Tyler and Frank Smith, sang several well-known songs very acceptably. Three selections were also rendered by an orchestra composed of Miss Edith Hunter, piano; Miss Eleanor Holt, violin, and Dr. A. E. Hulme, cornet. The whole program was one of interest and was well carried out. During the evening cake, candy and ice cream were for sale.

We suggested several weeks ago in commenting upon a business transaction of that time that an effort was making to establish a new code of ethics in Andover business. The moral phases of the proposition were touched upon at that time, not very approvingly. That it was legal and hence justified was the contention made by one of the parties interested. A reference to our news columns in today's issue will abundantly answer that contention. There would seem to be no call for further comment.

The last issue of the Guild Bulletin is one of the best numbers that has ever been issued, both in attractiveness and general helpfulness to the cause that the Guild is working for. That this publication is effective along the lines that it aims to be, is proven by the results following two appeals in the present issue, both of which are answered within a week of the date of issue.

The Kindergarten Question

In connection with the present agitation of the kindergarten question, the following article from the "Transcript," which gives the attitude of the new commissioner of education, Dr. Snedden, is of interest.

"It is perhaps not rash to predict for the kindergarten system that it will rather soon undergo a conversion from its present position of lofty theory to the more valuable school of the day nursery with school nurse attachment. It has been noted of the adherents of the great Froebel, in the past, that they are stronger in the enthusiasm of their theory than in the usefulness of their actual results. The pedagogical soundness of their theories has always encountered dissent; but it now appears likely that dissent will before long oust this classic system in order to replace it with something which will meet certain crying social needs which the kindergarten as now practised does not meet, and cannot meet until it adopts a more humble idea of its function.

"There is no need—or space—to argue here the immense social value of the school nurse and her work. The best way to appreciate it is to get in touch with some concrete example of it. Meanwhile, 'so long as there are slums, so long as mother of families have to leave their children in order to go to their daily labor, the school nursery—taking small children out of dirt and mischief, seeing that they are physically cared for, and teaching them a little if there is time for it—is an agency that the State must provide as a necessary defence to its own welfare. This seems to be the true function of the public kindergarten and it is probably the function it will soon frankly assume, so far as the State is concerned. It is a good deal more a social function, in a certain sense, than the educational function it now professes to fulfil on the basis of an unstable and unsound pedagogy." This quotation is not official but it less than a thousand miles away from opinion that is pretty certain to prevail. There are perhaps sundry heathenish non-Froebellians who will rejoice in what must seem to them the near approach of the truth."

CRICKET

Andover vs. North Chelmsford

Andover C. C. have something good for their followers tomorrow afternoon at Andover, when they play the North Chelmsford of Lowell in the Merrimack Valley League game. This is a strong team and they are battling well just now, so Andover had better be on the alert and keep up their good fielding. The Andovers will be represented by the following players: T. Lamond (capt.), W. Haddon, W. Black, W. Rea, D. Black, D. Lowe, D. Stewart, D. Bruce, J. Sullivan, J. Gordon, A. F. Duncanson; Reserve C. Fettes. Game will start at 2.4 p.m., when it is hoped there will be a large crowd of followers.

There was a very pleasant game of cricket played on the Andover grounds last Saturday between teams representing Arbroath and Gashields, the Arbroath team being victorious.

PUNCHARD COMMENCEMENT

Annual Exercises at Local High School—Class of Twelve Graduated.

The fifty-first commencement exercises of the Punchard school were held this week, when a class of twelve, seven girls and five boys, was graduated. The entire commencement program was very successfully carried out, and proved to be one of the best for several years.

The baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class was delivered on Sunday morning at the Free church by Rev. F. A. Wilson. He took for his text the 17th verse of the third chapter of 1st Timothy: "Furnished completely unto all good works." His address was as follows:

"This is certainly a desirable condition. The person is fortunate who is 'furnished unto all good works.' Such equipment for life is the great problem of education. Let me use it as an appropriate subject for our consideration this morning.

"I cannot claim special wisdom upon it, nor can I give it adequate treatment. The subject is too large and has too many phases for thorough discussion in the short time allowed us this morning; but I would offer a few suggestions upon it in the line of our text.

"There are two theories of public education prevalent, both of which have many advocates. Both regard its aim to be equipment for life's work; but they differ in their ideas of the kind of equipment most expedient to secure.

"The one values education chiefly for its results in wealth, position, power, skill, wisdom and satisfaction of desires, and would determine the kind of education accordingly. Is the individual to become a machinist, a chemist, an engineer, a teacher, a lawyer, a doctor, a clergyman? Let him begin the studies of his vocation as soon as possible that he may practice it early and win the greatest success. There is much to be said for this view.

"The other takes a broader view of life, and values public education, not so much for its immediate, material results as for the development of all the individual's powers, the cultivation of the highest manhood and womanhood, the ability to bring to whatever vocation is chosen a well-trained mind and a conscientious spirit. It will make sure that broad and deep foundations are laid, increasing the person's efficiency in any work he undertakes and adding to his power of enjoyment in fields outside of his special vocation.

"This foundation-laying for life's work is what the apostle has in mind. I think, by his expression 'furnished completely unto all good works.' He does not mean trained to be a 'Jack of all trades,'—to be able to do all kinds of work,—but furnished with such equipment of high principles as shall enable one to do his work of whatever kind with a right spirit and thus promote his success.

"Paul was fitted to advise his young friend Timothy to whom he is writing the letter in which the text occurs. He was a man of wide experience, his mind had been well disciplined and he had gained a high standard of morals, which made him an influential leader in the political and religious life of his nation. Recently he had come under the influence of a new personality who had given him new conceptions of life's meaning, aim and possibilities. With all the intensity of his nature and with full conviction of his reason he had embraced His teachings and given his life to their advancement. In becoming a follower of Jesus Christ Paul has found deeper springs in his own nature, gained broader views of life and come into closer relations with his fellowmen than ever before. Life seemed far richer and more worth living to Paul the Christian than to Saul the Jew.

"We of this twentieth century can find no higher standpoint from which to study life than the Christian. From this viewpoint I think we shall all agree that the first essential furnishing for all good works is a right relation to God.

"The religions of the world have many different forms and doctrines and there are great differences of opinion among their adherents. But every religion worthy the name has a doctrine of man's relation to God as one of its fundamental teachings. We have all been reared in some form of the Christian religion. Every branch of the Christian church believes that man is made in the image of God and was intended by his creator to know and do His will. Only as we follow His guidance can we realize our fullest development and destiny. This is a basal article in all our creeds, but is not always put into our practice.

"This age with its emphasis upon individual attainments, with its marvelous discoveries in the physical world, with its fascinating opportunities for accumulating wealth, for gaining power and influence, for acquiring knowledge and skill and for satisfying personal desires—this busy, rushing age tends to weaken man's sense of personal relationship to his Creator and the necessity of living and working and enjoying according to God's way in all our activities.

"You cannot expect a locomotive to run safely off the track. You cannot expect the little child to keep safe and right unguided by his superiors. Until we allow our lives to run on the track God plans for them, until we put ourselves under the guidance of the all-wise Father, we must go astray and fail of the best results in living.

"We are all given a conscience as the voice of God within us. Fidelity to its leading is a first asset of success, though it lead to temporary loss and disfavor.

"What Conscience dictates to be done, Or warns me not to do, This teach me more than hell to shun, That more than heaven to do."

"So sang Alexander Pope, and it is good sentiment for us all. Do you recall Tito Melema's experience in George Eliot's 'Romola'? When in the battle between his greed for the jewels entrusted to him for his foster father's ransom, and justice and honor to that father, he disobeyed his conscience, he entered a course which inevitably led downward. Neither the tempting flattery of his companions, nor the enjoyment of his ill-gotten riches could balance the loss of his own self respect and loyalty to the right. His death at the hands of his human avenger was but the outcome of the life of the course he had chosen.

"When Jean Valjean, as pictured by Victor Hugo, gave up his high name and emoluments as mayor for the sake of justice to his double, condemned to the galleys in his stead, his loyalty to conscience gave him back his manhood and heart peace, and crowns him as a kingly man in all of our hearts as we read his thrilling story.

"God's way made our way—God's will made our will, this is the fundamental choice for good works.

"And this choice allies all the laws of nature with us in our efforts to live most wisely. These laws are God's ways of working and are all intended for man's welfare. He who follows the voice of God within him will obey the laws of health for his body, mind and soul in so far as he knows them and will find them cooperating with him in his right use of his powers. From the Christian standpoint, the only safe way of living and the only way of assured success is the way of right relation to God.

"A second furnishing for all good works is a right appreciation of ourselves.

"No two persons are exactly alike. We differ in inheritance and environment. Our natural dispositions differ even more widely than our education. Much of the energy of life is unused, or misdirected because we fail to realize our possibilities, overestimate them, or strive to do as others do.

"One of life's earliest problems is to make a right inventory of the gifts we carry, as the mechanic needs to know his tools to wisely plan his work.

Two dangers threaten us—one leads us to undervalue our worth and ability and thus fail to fit ourselves for the best work possible. Such self-depreciation makes us careless of our powers, weakens our courage, and hinders our growth and attainments.

"The other danger is less common perhaps, but is hardly less harmful. It is the danger of overvaluing our powers, or of self-conceit. This leads to undertakings for which we are not fitted and to discouragement from the inevitable failures resulting.

"One of the great benefits of our public school education is to enable the scholar to 'grasp the handle of his being,' as some one has expressed it. It awakens the mind to unrealized potentialities, and opens fields of use for them. In our association with others, we are also helped to realize more clearly the limits of our own ability and to judge what lines of effort are most suited to us individually. The Christian standpoint enables us to use our gifts, be they few or many, in the wisest way. Believing that our Creator has some work for us to do in His world, we are glad to use our talents wherever and however He would have us,—in high places if called by Him to fill them, yet content to fill a little place, if God be glorified.

"This standpoint makes us more careful of ourselves. It assures us that we were made to be immortal,—that we are of too much value in God's sight to waste our time, our opportunities or our powers. Our manhood, our womanhood is of more value than all material gains or temporary pleasures. 'What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?' We need a right estimate of ourselves if we are to be 'completely furnished unto all good works.'

"A third furnishing needed is self-mastery. This implies more than self-knowledge. It means the control of one's powers as master of a complicated machine or as captain of a force of workers.

"No text book can give this equipment, and no diploma from school or university can assure guarantee of its possession. It is won only by the persistent practice of the individual in daily life. It is what the young man gains for his muscles and nerves in the gymnasium or on the athletic field.

"It is what the skilled musician gains from practice on his instrument or with his voice, enabling him to produce at will the delicate and accurate tone. It is the power of attention and persistence by which the scholar masters a subject in spite of its difficulty, his own disinclination or diverting hindrances. It is the strength with which the tempted man holds firm reins over his appetites and passions and guides them in safe courses for his welfare. The lack of it endangers the strongest health, the greatest attainments in knowledge, the highest fame and the most coveted gifts of genius.

"History's pages abound with examples of men and women of bright promise, great natural talents and thorough mental training, condemned to failure simply from lack of power to control their tongues, their tempers, their appetites or their passions.

Surely no person is fully equipped for success who has not acquired self-mastery.

"I will mention but one other requisite furnished for all good works. It is the art of living in right relation with others.

"Human life is social. 'None of us liveth to himself, and none dieth to himself.' To do our best work we must give due recognition to the needs and rights of our fellowmen. If we have not the love of service, we are unprepared for the most efficient and most joyous living.

"The author of 'In His Steps' says 'No man has a right to live in this world without adding his part to its happiness, its comfort and its betterment.' The writer of 'Christian and Social Progress' declares 'Every man is bound by the gifts of health, intelligence, capacity and opportunity which God has given him to put into the world at least as much as he takes out of it.'

"When that modern knight, General Charles George Gordon, fell at Khartoum, John Stuart Blackie wrote, 'What live we for but this? Into the sour to breathe the soul of sweetness—' Drown sneers in smiles, kill hatred with a kiss, And to the sandy waste bequeath the fame That the grass grew behind us where we came."

"All lovers of 'Tom Brown's School-days' will remember Tom's heart talk with the young master just before leaving Rugby for college. They had been speaking of what Tom had done in school and athletics. The boy confesses his desire now to be out in the world earning a living and doing something for somebody. The master answers, 'You talk of working to get a living and doing some real good in the world in the same breath. You may be getting a good living in a profession and yet doing no good in the world, but just the contrary at the same time. Keep the latter before you as your one object, and you will be right, whether you make a living or not; but if you dwell on the other, you'll very likely drop into mere money-making and let the world take care of itself for good or evil. Just look about you in the place you find yourself in and try to make things a little better and honest these,—every man may do some honest work in his own corner.'

"Tom never forgot this advice and it is good for everyone of us. This old world in which we live awaits the working of its educated young men and women, needs the helpful words and work of every true-hearted individual.

"The most praiseworthy trait in our ex-President Roosevelt which wins him the admiring honor of the civilized world to a degree unparalleled in modern times, is not his untiring energy, his wise statesmanship, his wide knowledge or his versatility of talents, but his willingness to use his great gifts and experiences for the welfare of our nation and his fellowmen.

"Let us not forget that the Divine Teacher himself said, 'Whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant,' and in his vivid picture of the judgment scene awards the blessing to those who have done to others as unto Him.

"From the Christian standpoint life's equipment is incomplete for any man or woman who has not learned to take the needs and rights of his fellowmen into unselfish consideration.

"Members of the class of nineteen hundred and ten, Punchard High School: You have come to an important time in your preparation for life's work. After years of training in the public schools you are about to leave their fostering care to begin the actual work of life or to take higher studies elsewhere. We congratulate you upon your perseverance in completing your course of study and upon the knowledge and mental strength you have gained.

"Your friends and fellow townsmen have high hopes for you in your use of the advantages you have enjoyed. Standing in this sacred building dedicated to the service of God and humanity, it is fitting that I remind you that your highest success will depend, not upon attainments guaranteed by school diplomas. Knowledge is an important asset for success; but you are 'completely furnished unto all good works' only as you have acquired the power to use your knowledge under the direction of your Creator and in the service of your fellowmen.

"The heart must co-operate with the intellect; character as well as brains is needed for all good works. If you keep yourselves in right relation to God, making His will the guide in your lives, if you have a just estimate of your own worth, if you exercise self-mastery, and if you live in right relation to your fellowmen, success is assured. Your works will be good whatever their returns in wealth, or honor or fame.

"It is a great privilege to live in an age and land of such opportunities for personal growth, gains and service as ours, and it involves great responsibility. But there is available for our guidance the help of one who has trodden life's pathway before us with success, and who has left us His inspiring example, wise teachings and sure words of promise. This inspired book, which Paul recommended to Timothy for his help, gives us the record of Christ's life and words. May you so wisely learn its lessons that you will be 'completely furnished unto all good works' for this life, and win promotion to the school of heaven."

On Wednesday afternoon the class day exercises were held in the open air on the Punchard lawn. The affair was largely attended and well merited the hearty applause it received. The porch was tastefully decorated with greens making a dark background on which the class motto, 'Hodie non cras,' was displayed.

The exercises opened with the singing of "Alma Mater" by the school, followed by a forceful address of well-

The mission work in our own state,
What is it? Like some foggy stretch
At morn, it seemed, Let sunbeams bright Stream through the mist, what magic change!
Such was the change that message
wrought,
Illuminating, solemn, strong.
Our prayers were asked. Can one give less
For our great common work than this?
May messenger be ever blessed;
May message fall on hearts' good soil;
May little churches grow in grace,
And, thrusting out, send life afar;
May foreign peoples find a home;
May our young men respond to call
Of God, and fill the ministry
With good recruits, strong, mind and soul,
So that, when summons comes to join
The ranks on further shining shore,
There may be heard the Master's word,
'Well done.' Such is our prayer.

PSALM XXIII

WRITTEN FOR THE TOWNSMAN

The study of the Psalms reminds us that they are like wine that improves with age. Every century gives them new significance.

To the worshipful, well-trained mind, the nineteenth Psalm means vastly more than it could have meant to its author. The cross of Christ brings out the twenty-second Psalm like a stereoscope. The full meaning of a divine shepherd could be realized only in the "Good Shepherd" who laid down his life for the sheep. It will be a part of our eternity to be forever entering more largely into the infinite meaning of these words of God.

For what is true of the process of the ages, in this unfolding, is also true of our personal advancement in the Christian life: growing in the grace and knowledge of our Lord Saviour. Increasing in the knowledge of God. His word is enriched by new discoveries, and glorified by new experiences of its power.

A thoughtful man was pressed by a friend for a statement of his creed. In reply he repeated with deep and reverent enthusiasm the 23d Psalm. "That," he said, "is my creed. I learned it from my mother's lips. I have repeated it every day for the last twenty years. As yet I only half understand it. I am only beginning to spell out its infinite meaning. But by the grace of Christ I will hold it as my creed; for I know that it will lead me to the cross, and will bring me to glory.

Notice the position of this Psalm in the Psalter. It lies between the Psalm of the cross and the Psalm of the crown. The Psalm of conflict and the Psalm of triumph.

This arrangement may be accidental; but it illustrates the Christian's experiences, at least in many instances.

The newborn Christian is yet in the morning twilight. Worldly propensities have not fully disappeared. New habits are not yet fully established. The flesh lusts against the spirit and the spirit against the flesh. Prayers seem to be unanswered. The thorn in the flesh is not removed. Trials and disappointments multiply. The sense of God's presence is fitful and uncertain. O my God, I cry in the daytime and thou hearest not (Ps. 22:2). The sense of divine desertion is a far cry from "Lift up your heads O ye gates, and the King of Glory shall come in."

But relief comes even in the twenty-second Psalm, and prompts a celebration of the divine goodness. They shall praise the Lord who seek him. Outward conditions may remain unchanged, but all is peace within. Disappointments no longer disturb, for they are recognized as his appointments; the choice for us by Him who is infinite in wisdom, and whose name is Love. And so the troubled soul passes into the composure of the shepherd Psalm, and thence by way of Bunyan's land of Beulah through the everlasting doors to dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

What a bald and wooden interpretation is that which would confine the meaning of these Psalms and kindred passages and promises to God's care of His people of Israel, or for the household of faith in their collective capacity. That he does thus care is true and should awaken fervent gratitude. But these scriptures were meant to flow from heart to heart, and to kindle in those who read or sang them the same personal emotions and convictions that prompted the original utterances, and so to adapt themselves to all needs, spiritual and temporal, of every soul in every age.

There are different views of the symbolism of this Psalm. The usual view is that it has a two-fold aspect: presenting God, first as a shepherd and then as a host. Others would carry the figure of the shepherd to the end, the entertainment pointing to further care of the sheep when the day is over. Prof. Briggs suggests three figures: the shepherd, Vs. 1, 2, making plentiful provision; Vs. 3, 4, a guide conducting the pilgrim into safe paths and in the right direction; and the host providing food and shelter at the end. The thought is the same in either case: the perfect safety of God's providential care.

Annotations

We have here three precious facts. A great Name: Jehovah, the "I am," the eternal One; without beginning of days or end of life; who only hath life in himself; the Lord God, merciful and gracious, slow to anger, forgiving iniquities, transgressions and sins. Leading us in the right path for his name's sake. That he may prove himself equal to His name. That we may behold the King in his beauty even here.

A great faith: great in its objects; in its possibilities; ever expanding to take in more of God's infinite fullness; in its effects—beholding the glory of God we are changed into his likeness.

A great Sufficiency: ample in its scope; minute in its application—my God shall supply all your need according to his glorious riches. Be anxious about nothing, but in everything let your requests be made known unto God.

It is not enough for me to know that God is a shepherd, a guide, and an entertainer. The blessings implied in these epithets can be ours only by being received and used, and we must make them ours.

The sheep is lost that refuses to follow the shepherd. My sheep know my voice and they follow me, and a stranger will they not follow. And I give them eternal life.

The mountain climber is lost who cuts loose from his guide. Hold thou me up and I shall be safe. The home is no help to him who has turned his back upon it. Goodness and mercy may follow him all his days, but to no purpose.

The secret of all true success is summed up in one word—God. Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee, because he trusteth in Thee.

Plans for Scottish Games on July Fourth

The subordinate Clans of the Order of Scottish Clans situated in the Merrimack Valley, have now formed an organization to be known as the Union Picnic Committee of the O. S. C. of the Merrimack Valley, for the purpose of annually holding a Scottish gathering and sports, the first to take place on the riding park, Lawrence, on July 4th. The following clans constitute the management for this year: Clan MacPherson, Lawrence; Clan Douglas, No. 134, Haverhill; Clan Johnston, No. 185, Andover; Clan Grant, Lowell; Clan Fraser, Amesbury.

The officers and various committees that are making elaborate arrangements for the event are: President, Chief James MacKechie, Clan MacPherson; vice-president, Frank Leith, Clan Douglas; secretary, Peter A. Wilson, Clan Fraser; treasurer, Thomas Manson, Clan Johnston; games committee, Chairman, Frank Leith, Haverhill; Neil MacNeil Watters, Lowell; Peter A. Wilson, Amesbury. Rules committee, Chairman, James MacNeil, Haverhill; Frank Leith, Haverhill. Grounds committee, Chairman, Robert Hutcheson, Andover; William W. Taylor, Haverhill; John Armstrong, Lawrence. Printing committee, Jas. McKechie, chairman, Lawrence; John Tart, Lowell; James MacNeil, Haverhill; Privileges committee, Arthur G. Innes, chairman, Andover; George Bushnell, Lawrence, D. A. MacFayden, Lowell.

Cash prizes, handsome cups and medals to the value of $500 are offered for confined, amateur and professional events, which will comprise every form of sport—running, jumping, pole vaulting, putting shots, throwing hammer, tug-of-war, five-a-side football, quoiting, bagpipe competitions, Highland dancing, etc. The ring master and director of games is William A. Rigg of Jamaica Plain. Entries may be made to Neil M. Watters, clerk of ring, 19 Ralph St., Lowell, Mass.

All entries for professional handicapped races must be made to Frank Leith, 22 Ringold St., Haverhill, Mass., not later than June 25, 8 p.m. The committee have engaged the Highland Pipe and Drum band of Boston, also the Columbian orchestra. Dancing will be enjoyed in the large open pavilion free. The clans, dressed in Highland costume, accompanied by the Pipe and Drum band and other local pipers, and a contingent of about fifty members of the Highland Dress association of Boston, will parade from the North Lawrence depot at 9.30 a.m., to the grounds, the games starting at 10.30 a.m.

Prizes will be exhibited in the window of Oppenheim's clothing store, Essex street, Lawrence, from June 28th to the day of the games. Refreshments of every description will be for sale on the grounds. Admission tickets can be had from local members of Clan Johnston.

Already a large entry of well-known athletes, both professional and amateurs, have been booked and a great day's sport is anticipated, with record-breaking results. Clan Johnston are to make themselves known that day with their tug-of-war and five-a-side football teams, and a general turnout of all-round athletes. The handsome cups and medals to be given for the amateur events have been acknowledged by that body to be better than any others offered at track meets on the Fourth in this state. Arrangements are now almost completed and a great gathering is looked forward to. See posters for list of events, prizes and all other particulars.

More than a million dollars worth of parks are today being thrown open to the public by the trolley roads of this state, according to reports that have just been received at the headquarters of the Massachusetts Street Railway association in Boston. Within reach of the people of almost every community, scores of mountain, lake and seashore resorts that have stood deserted for the last eight months are now repaired ready to receive the crowds for whose summer amusement they are maintained. Squads of extra motormen and conductors and hundreds of cars that have been idle since last fall are reported to be prepared to move excursionists to these parks over miles of track that has had little use all winter.

To turn showmen in the midst of their preparations to cope with the short summer rush, is regarded by the trolley men who make up the state association as one of their hardest tasks. While the big power plants required to move the pleasure crowds of a hot evening are being made ready for their extra burden, overworked officials are required to organize and carry on free amusement enterprises along the most modern lines. Though every park maintained by the street railways of Massachusetts is recorded as losing from one to thirty thousand dollars as a show venture last summer, the trolley men declare that popular demand and the necessity of making some use of their large investment in these parks will oblige them to offer even more extended entertainment during this season.

Accurate account of the cost of every swing, seat, booth and board in their resorts is being kept by the trolley men who make up the state association as one of their hardest tasks. While the big power plants required to move the pleasure crowds of a hot evening are being made ready for their extra burden, overworked officials are required to organize and carry on free amusement enterprises along the most modern lines. of physical value to securities is the highest in the world.

Though almost every trolley park, from the Berkshires to the coast, will be kept open with new amusement attractions this season, it is reported that many a street railway would be glad to give up this peculiar function of showman along these lines. Few new resorts of this kind have been built in the last fifteen years, the records show, while practically none have been set up within the last decade.

come by James G. Anderson, president of the class. Eva A. Howell then gave an amusing history of the class, considerably in detail, and full of bright and interesting incidents.
The members of the class then sang a medley which consisted of jingles set to several popular tunes. These jingles, which formed a feature hitherto unknown in the class day exercises, were written by Miss Anne Gillen. The ivy planting then followed, the ivy oration being delivered by Miss Esther S. Eaton. Miss Lizzie Cole came next with the class statistics, which were unusually interesting. After the singing of the class song, Miss Margaret J. English delivered the prophecy. Miss English was attired as Queen of the Fairies, and was attended by two of her subjects, two little girls. The picture formed as the fairy queen read the fortunes of the members of 1910 from a collection of flowers, was pretty indeed, and was one of the prettiest features of the exercises.
The last address of the afternoon, that to the undergraduates, was delivered by Thomas Kyle, and the program closed with the singing of the class ode. The open air exercises were certainly highly successful as well as pleasing to all present. The program follows:

CLASS MEMBERS
James Grant Anderson, Sarah Lizzie Cole, William John Cronin, Roy Dearborn, Esther Sophia Eaton, Anne Viola Gillen, Eva Alta Howell, Mildred Jenkins,
Arthur Kimball Johnson, Thomas Joseph
Kyle, Florence Abbie Reilly, Margaret Josephine English.

CLASS OFFICERS
President, James Grant Anderson
Vice-President, Anne Viola Gillen.
Sec. and Treas., Thomas Joseph Kyle.

Following the exercises, the usual reception for the seniors was held by the juniors in Pynchard hall, and proved to be enjoyable in the extreme.

The commencement exercises were held on Thursday evening in the town hall and were witnessed by a large audience. As usual the class occupied the platform and the undergraduates attended in a body. The entire school rendered the first number on the program, a musical selection,
"Mighty Jehovah," from Donizetti.
Prayer was then offered by Rev. Aus-tinus H. Fuller of Ballardvale. Miss Mildred Jenkins, who held one of the honorary parts, followed with the salutatory, in which she welcomed those present to the 1910 commencement, and also with an essay, well written and well delivered on "The Influence of Sea Power on American History." Passing over each of the crises in our nation's history, especially conflicts with other powers, Miss Jenkins showed very clearly to what extent the American navy had helped or hindered the causes.

The next number was enjoyed by all, it being the singing of a part of "Cavalleria Rusticana" by the school chorus.

"Some Phases of the Immigration Question" was the title of the essay read by William Cronin. In it he traced the alarming increase in the influx of foreigners into this country in the last ten years, pointed out some of the evils which have and will result, and indicated several methods which might be employed to alleviate the conditions.

The third essay on the program was delivered by Miss Florence A.
Reilly. Her subject was "The American Shipping Problem," and she endeavored to point out the needs for a better American merchant marine.
Miss Anne Gillen then read her essay on the question much mooted and discussed in our land today,
"The High Cost of Living." After another musical number, "The Marathon Race," from "Carmen" had been enjoyed, the class gift, a picture of "The Reading from Homer," a subject well known, was presented to the school by James G. Anderson, president of '10, and accepted by Eric Wilson, president of '11. Albert W.
Lowe of the school committee then presented the usual prizes given at commencement, as follows:

A botany medal to the one bringing in the largest collection of first flowers—Margaret Barrett.

The two botany prizes for excellence in the subject of botany, awarded according to the marks for the year—1st, of $5, to Mary S. Mitchell; 2nd, of $3, to Helen B. Higgins.

The $10 "character" prize for best all-round influence, to Anne V. Gillen.
A new prize called the Parker memorial prize, given by Carl R. Parker in memory of his father, the late Geo.
A. Parker, awarded to the athlete who has made his "P" twice and at the same time has stood highest among the other athletes in his studies—to Lester Towne.

Prin. Charles L. Curtis also awarded the two prizes for excellence in Latin, the first to Lucretia Lowe, whose average mark for her year's work was 99.2 and whose mark in the final examination was 100. Miss Lowe is certainly to be congratulated on such a record. The second prize was awarded to Helen Swanton, whose yearly average was 98 and whose examination mark was 99.4.

After the prize awards Arthur K.
Johnson delivered his essay on "The Reclamation of the Desert," followed by his valedictory. The essay showed the great thought and care put into its preparation and treated of the wonderful changes which have been made west of the Rocky Mountains by the transforming power of water.

Colver J. Stone, chairman of the school committee, after a few remarks to the graduates, presented the diplomas. With the singing of the class ode the class of 1910 passed out from Pynchard, their places to be filled by others during the coming year. May the success which should come from the following of their class motto, "Hodie non cras," "Today not tomorrow," be with them.

The program of the exercises is given below.

GRAMMAR GRADUATES

Students from all Sections Get Diplomas at Centre School
Exercises

The graduating exercises of the ninth grades of the grammar schools were held yesterday afternoon in Funchard hall, before a large audience of relatives and friends. Fifty-four pupils, of whom thirty-two were boys, were graduated.

The program of exercises consisted of music, an address by Colver J. Stone, and the presentation of the certificates. Following the march, a selection by the chorus and a piano solo by Mary Black, Mr. Stone spoke for a few minutes to the graduates. He emphasized three points, what the pupils owe to their teachers, what they owe to the town of Andover and what they owe to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. He said that a true teacher not only teaches reading, spelling, arithmetic, etc., but strives to inculcate various virtues, such as the sense of honor, integrity and honesty. For this the pupils owe a great deal. They are also indebted to the town which furnishes school buildings, books and supplies, and which gives to all an easy opportunity to obtain at least a partial education. In return, pupils should seek to bring credit and honor to the town, to uphold her traditions, take part in her life. A third debt is owed to the Commonwealth which compels the existence of public schools, which sees that all boys and girls are kept in school until they are fourteen years of age, and which furnishes the school physician, the school superintendent and the efficient teacher. Mr. Stone then urged upon the pupils the duty of becoming ideal citizens with worthy ambitions and aspirations, in return for the care which has been given to them by the teachers, the town and the commonwealth.

After another musical number Mr. Stone presented the certificates to the graduates. The program of the exercises follows:

Andover Guild

The tardy Bulletin should have reached every contributor and worker on Wednesday. If any have been omitted, it is entirely a clerical omission, and any such or others who are interested, may obtain a copy by sending their address to the superintendent.

For the benefit of those who have not seen the Bulletin we add the statement of our summer plans. The vacation school and summer clubs open on July 5th in three groups:—

(1) Boys and girls, ages 8 to 14 inclusive, will meet at 9 a.m. in front of the Stowe school. The first morning will be devoted to sports, registration, and division of class work.
(2) Boys over 14 will meet on the grounds back of Funchard and on the playground at 4 p.m., to register and talk up their plans for sports and teams of all sorts.
(3) Any boys over 14 who wish to join the Guild Summer club with privileges of shower baths and bowling at five cents a string, may register at the Guild House during the evening between 8 and 9:30. This is the only group that have any fees—15 cents per month to cover cost of light and water at Guild. Thursday evenings for girls over 14 will be continued from July 7th as during the early summer.

There will be a five weeks' course in Trade School work given three afternoons from 7:15 to 9:45 for those interested in advanced sewing. Those who show marked ability in this course are eligible for these offers:—

(1) Three positions promised as dressmaker's assistants.
(2) One year's work of Lawrence Industrial School cancelled from three years' course.
Our full staff of workers for the summer will be Miss Mabel Ashton of the School of Domestic Science; Miss Katharine Lowe, of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio; Mr. Earle V. Long, of Harvard University, Cambridge; Miss Ella J. Spooner, head of Sewing Department of Simmons College; the Superintendent and Janitor of the Guild with Mr. David May for evenings when the house is open. We still hope to have Mr. Geo. L. Farley of New Haven with us during the summer work and we feel that the enthusiasm of such a combination of workers should assure a splendid summer session, but remember this summer work means an increased expense of about $400 and has been undertaken in a firm belief that the public will not let such a worthy undertaking go unaided.

Have you sent your check? Our good friends, Abbot Academy, Mrs. Somers, Mrs. Curran and Mrs. Whipple have sent the needed checks for the new gymnasium mattress, the new sewing machine and the furniture for our model bedroom to be used by the resident workers and for our course in care of the sick, ventilation, etc.

Those who have pieces of silk or linen, colored pictures, cord, worsted, or any materials that may be used in fancy work, can assist by helping us in such supplies. We need sand for sandpiles, crochet hooks, outdoor games, chairs to cane, bits of worsted, baseballs, colored cord, croquet sets, paper for kites, boxes of beads, tennis racquets, needles, scissors, helpers, tennis balls, bats, and money in large and small doses.

BEDEVILED MILK.

The Abiding Place of All the Imps
That Harass Man.

Modern Demonology as "Exposed" by the Lecturer of the Orange County
(N. Y.) Pomona Grange, Mr. J. Scott King—Dairymen Will Appreciate the Story.

The priests of the new demonology, the chemists, and the high priests, the doctors of medicine, have helped us to know that there is nothing sacred to the touch of bacteria. The holy communion cup is their abiding place. The lips of parents are bridges for their crossing over to the babies. Lovers must save their lips with carbolic paste or have a bottle of some holy wash with them for immediate exorcism. The very beloved currency of trade is particularly bedeviled even beyond sacred warrant with bacteria. Although it is a strange fact that the hierarchy of modern demonology shows little fear or reverence about handling money if it is plentiful enough, looking not askance at any taint.

It has been particularly found out that milk is a peculiarly loved abiding place of all the imps that harass man. For many centuries the lactical fluid of the cow stood for beneficence, for the building up of bone and good red blood. In this we now know we were mistaken and have long lived in darkness and ignorance.

Now we know the cow and Satan are allies, if not relatives. Where once the demon run worked havoc in our large cities, causing babies to nourish to die and decimating the flower of our youth, we now learn that milk is a greater demon. Statistics pile up to prove the awful slaughter at the hands of the Herod milk. The imps which generate typhoid, tuberculosis, diphtheria, scarlatina, have a great affinity for milk. Our barns, our farmhouses, the air on our hills, are filled with vast invisible armies of him, whose name is legion, waiting for the morning and evening milking times. Millions and millions wailing little devils play on the barn floor, sport in the hay, laugh at us from the crevices in the walls. Our wells have not their source from mountain forest, but from the stygian stream of bacteria. Our hands, even, are a dancing floor for ill-fated little devils. If we utter a whisper in the stable or cough a million devils are jarred in the milk cans. Country air is an exploded delusion. The city has the pure air. That God made the country and man the city is a superstition not becoming learned men. The only pure air we have in the country comes from the cities in the return milk cans and bottles, which, alas, we return filled with all evil things to infect the wholesome atmosphere of the towns. But a yet more interesting knowledge is dawning upon us. New York city has stumbled upon a new idea—malignant animal magnetism—as also has Boston. What the peculiar shape of this bacterial wiggle is we do not yet know. It probably is bifurcate and will receive the name of bisprill. Not only does milk give off physical but moral and spiritual disease. A cow with a tendency to kick over the pail must give a milk which has the bacteria of madness. Who drinks it gets the same disease. More the man who is profane at the cow's coarseness imparts to the milk a tendency to produce profanity. Here we are approaching a Scriptural fact, for did not the demons of Gadara enter into the swine, which rushed forth into the sea?

Light is a great enemy of malignant spirits. Bacteria properly find concrete floors chilly beds and resting places. If you increase the cubic space of their playground they are not so likely to fall into the milk pail in their games. A garment of pure white makes them fearful, as they look too much like the dress of angels. Dry hands give a better resting place because not so slippery as wet hands. You should breathe only through your nose and not talk while milking. Your mouth is an open sewer. Never sweat at a cow nor lose your temper. Poetical feelings and dreamy illusions should possess you at all times while near the cow. Never milk your cows if the hired man has not come back on time on holidays till after you have composed your mind by reading some Browning quotations or have had your wife play on the piano a stanza or two of some hymn like "We Shall Meet By and By." A small library of selected poems or a melodeon in the barn will merit you points on your score.

The farmer and the farmer's milk are the moral curse of the large cities as well as the physical curse. The cities' evils can readily be traced to the country, the very abode of all evil. Why should we not hail with joy the new crusade now that our minds are enlightened? Instead of fighting the inspection of our bodies and souls, of our barns and our wells, of our air and haymows, let us invite inspection. Let us stop the awful havoc we are making among the young and old of our cities with demon milk. Let us line up with priest and high priest of the new religion to prohibit the sale of milk or to put its sale under a strict license or take oath that we will milk our cattle six days a week in a hospital in nurse's gown and on the Sabbath day in a chapel arrayed in a monk's gown. So shall we roll back the stigma of our business and help undo the untold evils we have perpetrated in our large cities.
